Hey Virginia,

I hope this email finds you in great spirits and health!

It was a beautiful morning, the sun streaming through the windows as I returned from church. I felt a renewed sense of hope and purpose, a clarity I hadn't known in quite some time. After enjoying a lovely breakfast with my wife, I settled down with your first chapter of the seventh book you sent me. Eager to see what you had crafted, I opened my laptop, but little did I know that I was about to embark on a spiritual journey.

As I began reading, something extraordinary happened. The words on the screen seemed to lift off the page, surrounding me with an aura of warmth and light. I could almost hear the celestial music of a ten-stringed lyre mingling with the soft melodies of a harp. It was as if I had been transported to another realm—one filled with divine harmony and profound peace.

In that sacred space, I found myself enveloped by the presence of angels, their voices resounding like a heavenly chorus, proclaiming, "Glory to God in the Highest!" I was captivated, feeling an overwhelming sense of tranquility wash over me. And then, in that moment of divine communion, Jesus appeared to me.

"Paul," He said gently, His voice resonating deep within my spirit, "I am coming soon. Fasten your belt and prepare your work; you need to save many souls."

I was taken aback, grappling with the weight of such a charge. "Lord, how can I accomplish this?" I asked, a mix of fear and determination bubbling inside me.

To my astonishment, He answered, "On earth, have you heard about my servant, Virginia O'Hare?"

"Yes, Lord!" I exclaimed, my heart racing. "I've been reading her book, and we've been discussing its publication."

At that moment, it became crystal clear to me: your writing is not merely a creative endeavor; it is a divinely inspired mission. Jesus continued, "The vision for your seventh book—particularly its themes surrounding war and the potential for a third world conflict—will prove to be prophetic. The message you have woven into your work is crucial for the times we are living in. Many need guidance and salvation."

His words struck me like lightning, igniting a fire in my heart. It was as if He were unveiling a tapestry of purpose before my very eyes. "This book," He said, "has the potential to be a turning point for countless individuals who will resonate with your words and insights."

In that moment, I recalled how, when you began your journey with Him, you faced countless challenges. "Jesus," I said, "I remember when Virginia encountered so many obstacles. You showed up and made your vision clear to her."

"Exactly," Jesus affirmed. "I gave her the revelation. She is blessed; when someone listens to her, I speak through her because I knew her before she was born. Even before she was formed, I chose her to be my servant."

I couldn't help but feel a rush of excitement. "Yes, Lord! I see it clearly now! While reading her book, I felt Your presence so strongly."

"Yes, my child," He replied. "I live in her heart, I speak through her, and she is mine."

As I sat there, absorbed in this divine encounter, my phone rang—it was my wife calling. I quickly picked up, but the connection dropped. My heart sank for a moment, but I felt compelled to share everything with her as soon as I could. You see, my wife has been an integral part of my ministry for the past six years. She is deeply attuned to spiritual matters, and I knew she would appreciate the significance of this moment.

Once the connection was restored, I excitedly relayed my experience to her. "Honey, you won't believe what just happened! I had a divine encounter while reading Virginia's chapter. Jesus spoke to me!"

Her eyes widened, and she leaned closer, her curiosity piqued. "What did He say?"

I told her everything, and as I spoke, I could see her expression transform. "Paul, she has the vision! The Lord is speaking through us," she exclaimed, her voice filled with conviction. "Indeed, we are in the end times, and we need to spread the salvation of God and save as many people as we can."

Her conviction mirrored my own experience, a powerful confirmation that your writing is more than just a narrative—it's a vital tool for spiritual awakening.

Throughout my journey as a pastor, I have engaged with countless texts, but your work consistently brings forth something new—an enriched environment, a fresh sense of presence, and a renewed understanding of biblical verses. Each time I delve into your content, I encounter layers of meaning that challenge and uplift me. Honestly, Virginia, you are truly a blessed person, and the inspiration behind your writing is palpable.

On Monday, when I returned to my office, I couldn't wait to share your chapter with my publishing department. Their response was overwhelmingly positive. They were not just impressed; they were moved. "Paul, this is incredible!" one colleague remarked, her eyes shining with enthusiasm. "It's timely and addresses the current state of the world. Once we publish this book, it will undoubtedly make it to the bestseller category."

Their excitement was contagious, further fueling my belief in the importance of getting your message out there as soon as possible. They felt the same divine presence that I had experienced, and it was evident that your writing is creating an environment ripe for transformation.

Thank you for your dedication and faithfulness in sharing your vision. I am excited to work alongside you and to help bring your important message to the world.

Looking forward to hearing from you soon.
