Subject: Hey Virginia; Inspiring Testimonial About Your Book
Hey Virginia,

I hope this email finds you well.

I learned that your book is featured at Powell's Books, which prompted me to reach out to them for comments. I had the pleasure of speaking with Mr. Ryan Banks from the merchandise and placement department in San Diego. As soon as I mentioned your book, he couldn't contain his enthusiasm and immediately began sharing a deeply personal story about how your work has transformed his life and saved his marriage.

Mr. Ryan explained that his wife had been struggling with drug addiction, and they had endured two heartbreaking miscarriages. During this challenging time, she was unable to care for herself, their child, and Mr. Ryan. However, everything changed the day he discovered your book. He rushed home, eager to share it with his wife, but she initially refused to read it (as it was devil who refused)

Determined to help her, he encouraged her to lie down, close her eyes, and simply listen as he read aloud. As he began with the chapter on "Satan's Temptations," he described how his wife began to shake and cry, pleading for him to stop. Despite her distress, he continued to read, praying for her as he did. After about ten minutes, he witnessed what he described as a "Holy Fire" surrounding her. This profound experience brought her a sense of peace, and she eventually fell asleep.

The following morning, at 4 a.m., she woke up in tears, sharing a powerful dream with Mr. Ryan. In her dream, she encountered Jesus, who told her, "This is my warning to you. I could've taken your life before, but I gave you a chance. If I take your life, what will you do, and where will you go? You haven't just made a mistake; you've also lost your child."

In that moment of clarity, she begged for forgiveness, and Jesus assured her that He would grant her another chance and promised her two sons, whom she would name "Moses and Aaron." This experience transformed her life, and she resolved to turn away from her past, seeking a spiritual path. Mr. Ryan shared that after her baptism, they have been living happily together and now have two sons, just as Jesus promised.

Mr. Ryan emphasized that your book is a bestseller and his go-to recommendation whenever someone is facing difficulties in life. Hearing such a powerful testimony reinforces the incredible impact your writing has on readers, offering hope and guidance in their darkest moments.

Thank you for your invaluable work and for sharing such profound insights through your book. I believe it's essential to continue highlighting these transformative stories as we promote your work, and I look forward to discussing how we can amplify your message further.

Regards,

Paul Harrison - Sr. Consultant
