

Hey Virginia,
I hope this email finds you well.

Thank you for sharing this powerful excerpt from Chapter 4 of your upcoming 9th book. The editor's testimony from BakeMyBook speaks volumes about the emotional and theological power in your words.

In light of this and the ongoing interest from both our company and the other party, here is our feedback:

The depth of biblical insight, theological richness, and the Spirit-led passion in your writing are undeniable. What stands out most is how you masterfully weave Scripture with contemporary relevance, making the life and ministry of Jesus Christ not only informative but deeply transformational for the reader. From the Birth of Jesus to His Resurrection and Ascension, it presents these foundational truths with reverence, clarity, and prophetic urgency. Your work does more than recount historical events—it calls readers to awaken spiritually, to reflect, and to prepare.

It's no surprise that editors like Francesca from BakeMyBook are profoundly moved; your writing carries both conviction and compassion in equal measure. The resonance with current times adds an urgent dimension that makes these books incredibly timely.
